Glassdoor Employees’ Choice Awards for the Best Places to Work in 2022

The Glassdoor Employees’ Choice Awards for the Best Places to Work in 2022 rely on feedback from employees who elected to anonymously submit a company review on Glassdoor. When submitting a company review, employees are asked to share their opinions on some of the best reasons to work for their employer (pros), any downsides (cons) and are encouraged to provide advice to management. In addition, employees are asked to rate how satisfied they are with their employer overall, rate their CEO as well as rate key workplace attributes like career opportunities, compensation and benefits, culture and values, diversity and inclusion¹, senior management and work-life balance. Employees are also asked whether they would recommend their employer to a friend and whether they believe their employer’s six-month business outlook is positive, negative or if they have no opinion.

The Glassdoor Employees’ Choice Awards for the Best Places to Work in 2022 feature six distinct categories across five countries. For each category, company reviews and ratings² from current and former³ employees submitted between October 20, 2020 and October 18, 2021 were considered.

Each list was compiled using Glassdoor’s proprietary awards algorithm, and each employer’s rating was determined based on the quantity, quality and consistency of reviews during the eligibility time frame.

1. For quantity of reviews

A minimum number of ratings are required across nine workplace attributes that employees can rate when submitting a company review on Glassdoor. They include overall company rating, career opportunities, compensation and benefits, culture and values, diversity and inclusion, senior management, work-life balance, recommend to a friend and six-month business outlook. These nine workplace attributes will be taken into consideration as part of Glassdoor’s proprietary awards algorithm, created by Glassdoor’s Economic Research team, to determine the winners.

To be considered for a specific category, an employer must meet the following requirements during the eligibility time frame:

100 Best Places to Work – U.S. large companies:
At least 75 ratings across the nine workplace attributes from U.S.-based employees; at least 1,000 employees at the end of the eligibility time frame.

50 Best Places to Work – U.S. small & medium companies:
At least 30 ratings across the nine workplace attributes from U.S.-based employees; fewer than 1,000 employees at the end of the eligibility time frame.

25 Best Places to Work – Canada:
At least 25 ratings across the nine workplace attributes from Canada-based employees; at least 1,000 employees at the end of the eligibility time frame.

¹Best Places to Work in 2022 is the first year to include an employer’s diversity and inclusion rating. Glassdoor introduced this workplace factor rating in September 2020.
²Overall employer and workplace factor ratings are based on a 5-point scale: 1=very dissatisfied, 2=dissatisfied, 3=OK, 4=satisfied, 5=very satisfied
³While Glassdoor accepts reviews from former employees within five years of leaving a company, only reviews from former employees who left the company in 2021 or 2020 are considered in determining the 2022 Employees’ Choice Awards.
50 Best Places to Work – UK: At least 30 ratings across the nine workplace attributes from UK-based employees; at least 1,000 employees at the end of the eligibility time frame.

25 Best Places to Work – France: At least 20 ratings across the nine workplace attributes from France-based employees; at least 1,000 employees at the end of the eligibility time frame.

25 Best Places to Work – Germany: At least 20 ratings across the nine workplace attributes from Germany-based employees; at least 1,000 employees at the end of the eligibility time frame.

For all categories, an employer must also have at least a 3.5 overall company rating and at least a 2.5 across each workplace factor rating (career opportunities, compensation and benefits, culture and values, diversity and inclusion, senior management and work-life balance) during the eligibility period. Plus, employee count displayed on Glassdoor as of October 18, 2021 is used to help determine category eligibility. The awards also take into account various types of employment status, including full-time, part-time, contract and freelance. Intern company reviews, however, are not considered. Reviews from employees at universities, multi-level marketing agencies and in the armed forces are also not considered.

2. For quality of reviews

Glassdoor’s proprietary awards algorithm also takes into account what employees have to say that shows winners truly outshine the rest. Quality reviews are those that especially help job seekers by offering insights and feedback into what it’s really like to work at a company, including what’s working well, what needs improvement and advice to senior management, which employees are asked to share when completing a company review.

3. For consistency of reviews

Glassdoor’s proprietary awards algorithm also looks at trends over time relating to both quantitative and qualitative insights shared by employees.

For reporting simplicity, employer and workplace factor ratings displayed on Glassdoor and for the Employees’ Choice Awards are limited to one decimal place, though actual calculations extend beyond the thousandth place in order to determine final rank order.

As part of determining award winners, Glassdoor is committed to the highest level of data integrity and reviews quality, including treating all employers equally regardless of whether they are a customer of Glassdoor. If the Glassdoor eligibility panel suspects and/or determines official company representatives have attempted to influence employee reviews or have tampered with the process of collecting authentic, unbiased reviews, including intentional or unintentional acts that violate the Glassdoor Community Guidelines and/or Terms of Use, an employer may be excluded from awards consideration. Exclusion from eligibility can be triggered by such acts as, but not limited to, management (1) attempts to leave false reviews, (2) coercion of employees to submit positive reviews, (3) attempts to suppress reviews or other activities and/or events which could ultimately damage employees’ faith in the employer, its senior leadership and/or adversely affect its overall rating on Glassdoor.
